

Greg Eaton, Director, School of Science Faculty

Dan Miles, Facilities Manager

Dan Cohen, Education Coordinator

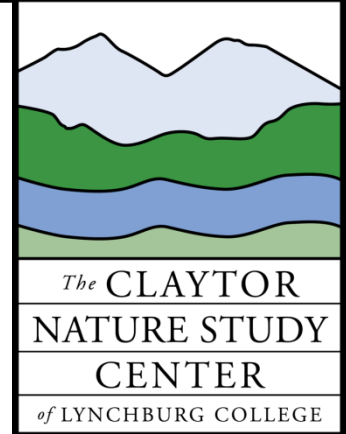

Maggie Liell, Groundskeeper

Brief History of Land Development

- 1998: A. Boyd Claytor III donates property to College
- 1998: Virginia Outdoor Foundation (VOF) Easement
- 1999: Wildlife Habitat Incentive Program (WHIP)
- 2000: Wetland Reserve Program (WRP) & Conservation Reserve Program (CRP)
- 2003: Education & Research Facility
- 2005: Lab Annex & Experimental Garden
- 2007: Belk Astronomical Observatory
- 2008: Master Planning Initiative to chart the next 10-20 years

The Center's Vision

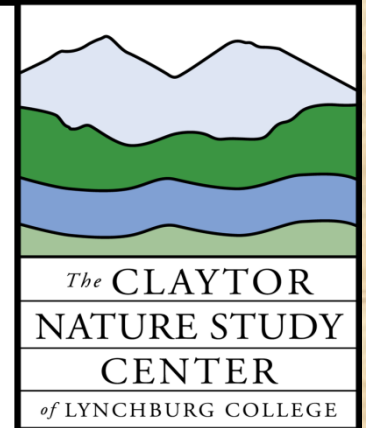

To be recognized as the premier facility in Central Virginia for the study and appreciation of our natural environment, and to be well utilized as such by the College and community.

A. Boyd Claytor, III

The Center's Mission

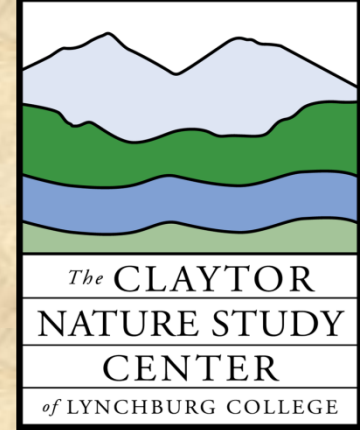

The Mission of the Claytor Nature Study Center of Lynchburg College is

- To enrich learning about nature through education and research
- To promote and demonstrate sustainable human - environment interactions
- To preserve and enhance the diversity and function of ecosystems

Our Mission

- To enrich learning about nature through education and research

Users of the Claytor Nature Study Center

21st Century CCLC Opportunities with the Claytor Nature Study Center

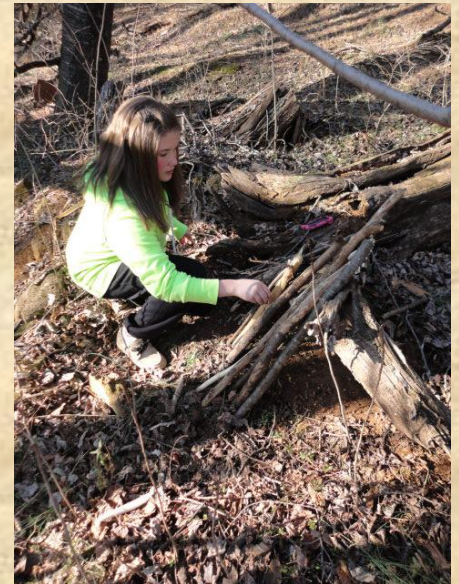

- Afterschool Classes
- Field Trips
- Summer Camps

Dan Cohen, Education Coordinator
Cohen.d1@lynchburg.edu

Afterschool Classes

- Animals in Winter
- Water is Wild!
- Habitat Explorers

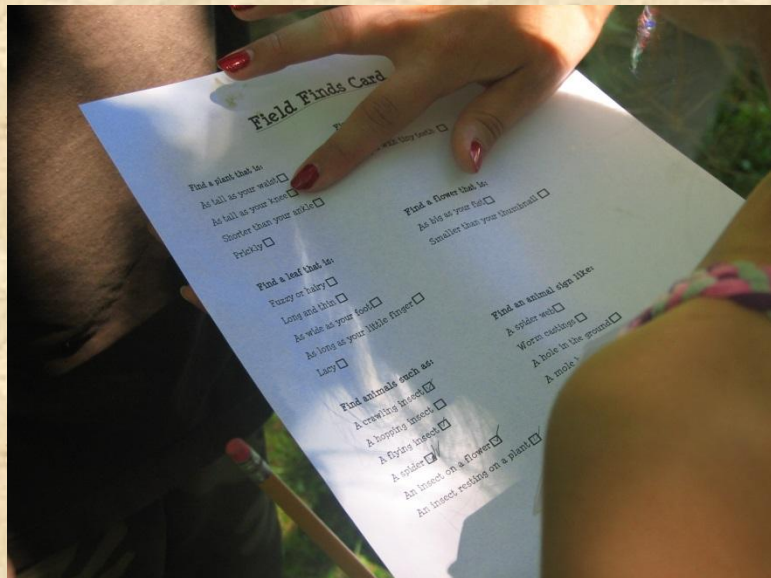

Summer Camp with Bedford County CCLCs

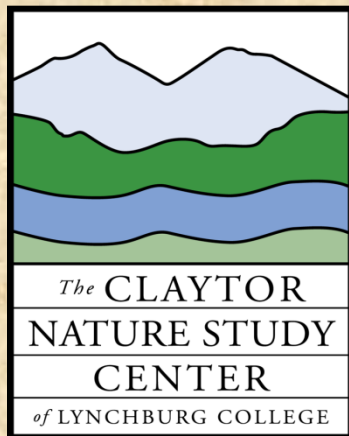

Hands On Learning

Half Day Field Trips

Dan Cohen, Education Coordinator
Cohen.d1@lynchburg.edu

